MONEY MARKET.

FRIDAY, Dec. 19—6 P. M.

There was a little more activity and a little better
celling in the steek market to-day. Erie was in greater demand, and all the fancies were not so freely offered. A slight improvement in prices was realized. At the first beard, Eric Railroad advanced 14 per cent; Harlem, 34; Norwich and Worcester, 34; Reading Railroad, 34; Long Island, 34; New Jersey Zinc, 34. The news from Uniformia has not had the favorable influence upon quotations for stocks anticipated. The arrival of one nillion of gold dust, and the announcement that a nillion and a half more will soon be here in the ceorgia, now due from Chagres have given no impetus of importance to speculation. The steamship Arctic, for Liverpool, to-morrow, will take out about one million in coin, principally gold. The demand for foreign exchange, to-day, was enly moderate. Drawers are still firm at our quotations. We quote bills on London at 10½ a 10½ per cent premium. On Paris, 5f 15 a 5f.12¼; Amsterdam, 41¼ a 41½; Bremen, 78 a 78½; Hamburg, 38½ a 36½.

The receipts at the office of the Assistant Treasurer of this port, to-day, amounted to $58,955 76; payments, $471.812 25—balance, $2,654,207 75. The Treasurer is repared to supply any demand for three cent pieces.

The Boston and Providence Railroad Company have eclared a semi-annual dividend of three per cent.

The bonds and mortgages held by the Superintendent of the Bank Department, as part security for the circu-lating notes of the James Bank and the Bank of New Ro chelle, were sold at public sale at Albany, on Wednesday. The sale was well attended, notwithstanding which there was a heavy loss, amounting to nearly fifty per the following. The mortgages of the James Bank were for the amounts, and brought as follows:—

This sale affords another evidence of the impropriety of permitting bonds and mortgages to be taken, in part or whole, as security for circulating notes.

All classes, political, religious, financial, and commer ial, appear to have no conception of the result of the novements going on in this section of the world. They have all cast themselves into the tide, and the current is fact bearing them onward. The power appears irresist-ible, and no one; teems disposed to oppose it; there is a sort of charm in the influence brought to bear, that faccinates every one, and governs them according to its sort of charm in the inneance orought to bear, that faccinates every one, and governs them according to its will. No one seems to know or care where all this may lead, or what will be the consequence of the course the mass is now pursuing. The public mind has been selzed by a master spirit, which is forming it to meet its purposes. Every rect, every party, every class, from the lowest to the highest, have been mysteriously captivated—they know not how or why, or what, will be the result. The same spirit prevalls in Congress—in our State legislatures—in city councils, churches, with men, women, and children—in fact, it is all pervading, is found every where, and gives a complexion to everything. It would be well enough for those who are deeply interested in these movements to pause, and look below the surface—to take the second sober thought, and look a little beyond the present excitement. They will, by so doing, see enough to alarm them, and induce them to put their affairs in a proper state to meet the approaching crisis. The precedings of Congress in relation to Kossuth, are fraught with danger; steps have already been taken which cannot be retraced. It will be some little time before we shall see the effect of our acts; but those who look more closely into the political state of Europe cannot resist the conviction that we will be comthese who look more closely into the political state of Europe cannot resist the conviction that we will be com-pelled to play a prominent part in the great drama about being placed upon the European stage. We have already become a party; we may not be required to take an active part in the contest about commencing, but the moral influence we shall exert will be immense. grad we have no doubt the course of events in Europe will be accelerated considerably by the policy pursued by Congress and the people of the United States, in re-lation to the movements and mission of the great Hunarian.

We are essentially a practical people; but in this in-stance we have been led along blind with excitement. We have not, with our usual caution, calculated the coet, and it may be more than we can even at this time estimate. The people of Europe have everything to gain by a political, financial, and commercial revolution. The governments, or those involved with those governments and their public debts, have everything to lose. The capi-talists of Europe, no do ubt, look upon the proceedings in this country, in relation to the political affairs of their governments, with fear and trembling; and well they Whatever may have been the result of the movements of Korsuth in Great Britain, it would have re-quired a longer period for developement, and the effect might have been comparatively partial, but for the incentive given to liberal principles by the sympathy and support of our people. If we afferd practical aid—if we individually provide the sinews of war—so much the better; the effect will be greater, and the result more speedy. It will, therefore, be attributed to the people of the United States, whatever movement may be made in revo-lutionizing the political affairs of Europe. The effect of this moral aid and support, upon our political relations with European governments, is a question for after consideration. At present, we have not actually compromised ourselves. The President and his cabinet, Congress and the House of Representatives, can offi-cially and individually—and undeubtedly have a right to—honor Kosouth in any-way they please; but they have no right to infringe upon treaties or implicate us as a government, in the political troubles and turmoils of na-tions with which we are at peace. In the first place, there is no necessity for our so doing, and it is a question if is would not impede, rather than advance, the cause which every one on this side of the Atlantic is so deeply interested to. As much as we would deprecate any movement calculated to retard the progress of liberal principles in every section of the world, we should oppose every act tending to destroy the obligation of treaties, or any deviation from the policy so long practised by our government. The people will do all that is required to accomplish the object in view. Political movements from this time forth, will be more or less regulated by this great question. It will insinuate itself in our local and general elections. It will become part of the erced of our political aspirants. Non-intervention will hereafter be the watch-word, and we shall find it prominently engrafted upon the tree of republicanism. It will constitute an important item in the platform is d down by each political party, and no man can obtain the popular vote for any leading position, who is not right on this question. This is the political aspect of this matter; and the excitement has hardly yet commenced. It will absorb every other public question, and fend to constitutates not dreamed of by the financial and commercial classes.

The next revolution or revulsion in Europe, will not be like the last or any previous one. It will not be examined to France or Hungary, but will be quite general, and it wou'd not surprise us if there were indications or demonstrations in Great Rei-tain of an emiscus character. The whole of Europe rests at this moment upon a political voicano, which may upheave at any moment. Our lotimate financial connec tion with Europe gives vast importance to all signs of the times; but very few on this side of the Atlantic appear to be aware of the dangers hanging over them. Things go on here as though the future was fall of promise-as though the prosperity we now enjoy was permanent—but they never made a greater mistake in their lives. There has not been a period in the commercial history of the country when it was more necessary to be prepared for a complete prestration of credit, and a total derangement of all commercial systems. A political revolution in Europe would, of course, bring about all the coucomitant cylis, and we should be serious sufferers by the destruction of our markets abroad — by the flood of foreign merchandise seeking markets here-by a complete anni hilation of the leading banking and exchange houses on the Continent-by the discredit of all paper money, and by an utter derangement of all the machinery of commerce. All these would bring disaster and distress directly upon these who are intimately connected with the financial and commercial adairs of Europe, and indirectly upon the country generally. We have more—much more—to lose than gain by a revulsion growing out of a revolution. At present we are in the midst of unparalleled prosperity and productiveness, and whatever occurs to interrupt this state of things, must prove fatal to our most important interests. It is true, we are now shipping gold at an average of a million of dollars per week, and doubtless would continue to, without any unfavorable consequences. It is the natural course of trade, and would regulate itself, unless operated upon by other influences. It is these influences that we fear, and our apprehensions are, unfortunately, well grounded. We are the catapaw regulate itself, unless operated upon by other influences. It is these influences that we fear, and our apprehensions are, unfortunately, well grounded. We are the catepaw of European financiers and capitalists, whenever they have any difficulties to encounter. They look to us for aid and comfert in their extremity, and have never found us wanting. In times of scarcity and famine they depend upon our granaries for supplies; the industry of the manufacturing classes of Europe is regulated by our markets. We have become a nation of the first importance in the minds of European capitalists. It is, therefore, probable that the first effect of a revolution would fall with overwhelming severity upon us. We look for markets abroad for hundreds of millions of our products, principally of the soil; and any occeation of that demand would restrict our resources materially, while it would not prevent immense shipments of European manufactures to this country, on European account. We should be called upon to make larger payments for goods consumed, without having anything but gold to meet them. It therefore becomes us to be prepared for the emergency. The middle and lewer classes of Europe have, for some time past, been secretly hoarding up the precious metals in anticipation of trouble. Millions upon millions have, in this way, been withdrawn from the channels of commerce; and the first sound of civil war would cause tens of millions upon to deannear. All this is near at hand.

in this way, been withdrawn from the channels of commerce; and the first sound of civil war would cause tens of millions more to disappear. All this is near at hand, and we have only to disconnect ourselves as rapidly and as effectively as possible, from those foreign interests likely to be most injured, to prevent within our own limits one of the most disastrous revulsions ever experienced We must not, under the present excitement, lose sight of the future.

The depreciation already realized in prices for certain kinds of property, is calculated to make speculators mere cautious in their movements. Cotton has declined fifty per cent, real estate nearly as much, and we have not yet touched bottom. Recent sales of houses and lots in the most fashionable sections of the city, show that people have not yet taken leave of all their senses, and are not disposed to pay more for property than it is that people have not yet taken leave of all their senses, and are not disposed to pay more for property than it is intrinsically worth. We have not yet reached panic prices; but the actual value of houses and lands, for actual use, will soon be the regulator in all transactions. Capitalists and business men on this side of the Atlantic, do not realize the dangers of their position; but there is evidently a feel ing of doubt and distrust taking possessiou of their minds, which will, before the lapse of many days, be visible in the movements of commerce. It is not a time to rush headlong into operations of any kind; but, on the contrary, a time for contraction, and those who withdraw themselves from speculation, or from the fancy investments of the day, will be able to look more calmly upon the progress of political events, look more calmly upon the progress of political events which, sooner or later, must undermine every political, financial, commercial, and, we might say, social institution in Europe.

CRASS VALLEY GOLD MINING COMPANY—CAPITAL, $100.00—Located at Grass Valley, Novada county, California. The above Company is organized under the act of the Legislature of California, passed April 22, 1850, entitled "An Act concerning Corporations," with a capital of $100,000, with a reserved privilege in the charter to increase the same to $220,000. Shares are $300 each, of which 200 shares are offered to subscribers on this side. The limited amount of the capital stock, their desired, however, ample for very extended and efficient operations, and the high charester of the officers and directors, must show to the public, which is not considered to the contractors, and show to the public, going to establish the immense importance of regular and scientific mining, in the amalgamation of gold from the quarts veins, the original matrix of that preclous metal, is of a character so full and satisfactory, that few are now to be found, who have given a moderate share of attention to the subject, that entertain doubts of the profitableness of investments. And these doubts, by whosoever entertained, will be utterly dissipated by the operations of the next twelvemenths, with the heavy machinery about to be introduced. The average product of the gold-bearing quarts, as shown by the results obtained at Grass Valley, is about three cents per 1b, but at the same time so inefficient are the present methods of amalgamation, that not exceeding one-third of the gold is obtained from the rock, as numerous assays have proved. New York, Dec. 10, 1851.

J. Winchester, Eq.—Dear Fin:—Your favor of yesterday is at hand, contents noted. Exercise the day we suppose is wanted by a "brief description of the machinery." Cram's Crusher is, of all machinery yet constructed in our opinion the most rapid-and efficient in its operation. It consists of a double grooved bed of cast iron, the outer groeve being 15, and the inner one it feet in diameter, in which moves a wheel 5 feet 6 inches in diameter, with plans faces corresponding to the faures of the grooves. This is to olved by a shaft through its centre, the inner one of which has a square eye, that receives a vertical shaft. On the head of the vertical shaft is placed a tooth wheel, with hard face, which is driven by another on the end of a shaft projecting cutward beyond the edge of the bed, and where the power is applied that east the whole in motion. We think a thirty herse power engains will grind to flour at on of quarts in five minutes. And we further think, there will be no necessity to stop the machine to clear the Grooves. Let them fill and keep feeding the machine with lumps, she flour or dust will overflow the rim, and can be discharged in troughs prepared for the purpose. The dragging of the outer wheel or lace alluded to assist the operation of crushing by the chaing motion it as all times has frem the difference of disameters. One wheel weighs 50,000 pounds, and from what we saw the other day, it will crush pieces of rock from 8 to 12 inches equire with perfect sace. Hoping the hope may prove ureful. We remain.

In reference to the amount of power required to operate. Capt. Cram's Patent Crusher, we give the following from the manufacturer.—A steam engine with cylinder 16 inches in diameter, and four feet stroke, with four boilers, cach 30 feet long, 25 inches dismeter, having two fluor brings from the manufacturer.—A steam engine with cylinder 16 inches in diameter, and four feet stroke, with four boilers, cach 30 feet long, 25 inches dismeter, having two fluor brivush each. The above engine warranted by us to operate the Quartz Crusher at least five revolutions per minute; and, in addition thereto, drive an upright saw for sawing logs or boards of largest size and whidlis. We have previously stayed that in 600 opinion, Capt. Orans and Acides will grins and pulverize to flour, one ten of quartz in five minutes, and continue at that rate to grind all day, desharging itself as the quartz is floured by the wheel. We are of the same opinion still.

LARMONT, SURGEON, F. R. SOCIETY, AND M. F. M. S. Medicine, has established (by his greatly superior treatment of all private diseases) a reputation which others sorely envy him. Net only for the astenishingly rapid curse of the disease while loosi, without, in many cases, using any medicines, but in those syphilitic cases of months and year's duration, consuing the deviraction of the bones for ever, and which have been under the charge of the most smirned wishout success, are his services so much sought by and valued; for unless the system is entirely freed from the full destroyer, it adjusts their innocent depring for guerations. The written certificates published by him, are for curse that, he is not afraid to assert, cannot be ovalled, though his praceptors were the great Ricord of Paris and Acten of London. The certificates also include the very unfertunately numerous victims of self-abuse, as there are theusands who cannot be cured with medicine. He therefore especially solleits those half cured, and abandoned cases of whatever complaint in this speciality, as he always quarantees an case and permanent cure.
